Dear Parents and Carers

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to share my reflections on our recent OFSTED visit, which took place this week during my first few weeks as your new headteacher. I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks for your support and cooperation during this important assessment. Your engagement and commitment truly made a difference. We had almost 50 responses to our parental questionnaire that included lots of positive comments such as children feeling safe and loved in our school.

I am immensely proud of our children, whose exemplary behaviour and positive attitudes shone brightly throughout the visit. They were excellent ambassadors for our school, demonstrating the values and ethos we strive to instil. The OFSTED team were able to capture the essence of what makes our school so special, and I believe this reflects not only on our children but also on the strong community we are fostering together.

Being brand new to the school community, this visit has provided me with valuable insights into our strengths and areas for development. The dedication and hard work of our whole team and the support of our governors were particularly noted, as was our warm and caring relationships with the children.

In the coming weeks, the OFSTED report will be made available to all parents, I will write to you again to share the outcomes. Rest assured, we are committed to building on our successes and addressing any identified areas for improvement. Together, I am confident that our school will continue to grow from strength to strength.

Thank you once again for your ongoing support. I look forward to working together to ensure the best possible outcomes for our children.

Warm regards,

Katy Anglesea
